60th TEACHERS INSTITUTE

ABLE INSTRUCTORS INSPIRE TEACHERS OF COUNTY

Excellent Evening Features Add their Entertainment to the Week.

MONDAY AFTERNOON.

With all but six of the two hundred and twenty teachers in attendance the Sixtieth Annual Adams County Teachers' Institute convened in Walter's Theatre Monday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the County Superintendent, H. Milton Roth.

The session opened with singing, "Come Thou Almighty King." Devotional exercises were led by Rev. J. B. Baker and consisted of scripture reading and prayer. The address of welcome was delivered by Dr. R. S. Oyler, of the Methodist church. After extending the teachers a cordial welcome on the part of the town, Dr. Oyler launched into a discussion of needs, or rather suggestions that might be carried out with much effect in the schools. He advocated the study of the Bible as one of the elective courses in the schools. "It contains the best and oldest literature and the flower of the English Language." He urged that the Bible be incorporated with the public school course. Second, concentrated effort in teaching is needed to fathom the individual peculiarities encountered in the lives of the pupils, said the speaker, and the teacher must get down deep into the lives of her charges and stir up talent and ability for their benefit.

The third point emphasized was the necessity of vocational training in the schools. Much of the school course is valueless to the pupil and more particular effort should be made to have the time utilized with the study of subjects of greatest importance to the pupil who does not pursue a college course. The response to the welcome address was made by Principal Hemmig, of the Abbottstown schools.

Dr. H. R. Shipherd, Professor in English at Pennsylvania College, addressed the teachers on the subject, "Teaching on English Classics." Before commencing his address Dr. Shipherd dwelt a few moments on the relation existing between the County teacher and College Professor. There must be co-operation between the teachers of the schools and in Colleges, for much of the development of the pupil who enters college is dependent upon the training he receives in the public schools. "The school boy is the father of the College man." "I envy you in your work because you have the opportunity to work with the pupil who never has the chance to get to College. Only five per cent. of the public school pupils afterwards enter College. We have a right to envy you, who are segregated with the five per cent. and should there be any discrimination made between the five and ninety-five per cent., it should most undoubtedly be in favor of the ninety-five, whose opportunities are so pitifully less than the other five." In his address, proper, Dr. Shipherd sought to discourage the teachers in difficult analysis in their teaching of the modern classics. "Teachers," he declared, "often have too much the tendency to analyze for the sake of analysis and not for total effect. The pupil gets no benefit whatever from the complex and compound sentences." The speaker likened the methods of some teachers in their "cutting, slicing and chopping up of the various parts for the sake of showing their ability to the inquisitive lad who takes a watch apart and never again has anything like a watch, but a mass of springs, pinions and wheels; so the teacher has a lot of parts that mean nothing to the pupil. "Our aim first, last and always should be towards total effect."

Dr. H. E. Hall, of Cumberland, Ohio, commenced a series of talks on the solution of problems in school room conduct that confront the teacher almost daily. He is an entertaining talker, interspersing his address with plenty of natural wit, and while his talk yesterday was but a section of his intended lecture he imparted many facts that would prove practical and solid thought on the part of the teachers.

Dr. J. C. Willis, of Lexington, Ky., the other instructor of the afternoon spoke on "Our Instinctive Life." His address was confined to the instinctive methods of appealing to the pupil through the proper channels. "In my life I have learned never to judge a man by what he has attained or accomplished but rather by the obstacles he has overcome." So it is with the child.

The singing of the afternoon was led by Irvin L. Taylor.

TUESDAY

Institute opened with music, led by Mr. I. L. Taylor.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. F. E. Taylor, who prefaced them by exhibiting a "blood red map" showing the scope of the European war, and impressed the fact of how thankful we should be that we live in the United States, and how earnestly teachers should endeavor to teach their pupils the wrongs of war and the efforts which should be put forth to instill lessons for peace.

Music by Institute.

Dr. P. M. Harbold, Principal of Millersville State Normal School, addressed the Institute upon the subject "The Rural School and its Present Opportunities." He said: "The government of the United States has designated that all sections of our country which have less than 2500 population are considered rural districts. In Adams County practically all schools outside of Gettysburg are considered rural schools. Our rural districts are decreasing in population, so the burden of supporting the rural schools is becoming more oppressive. owing to the fact that pupils from the rural districts are attending the higher graded schools of the towns. Many persons who are in business in the cities and live in the country are in a measure responsible for the dissatisfaction existing in the country schools, on account of having better schools in the city than in the country, and are agitating the betterment of the country school. Another element of the hard work in the rural schools is the fact that many classes in rural schools number, say from 30 to 40, while in the city only about six or eight compose the classes, so more thorough work can be done in the town or city schools.

"Another element of affliction in rural schools, is the short term and low salary as compared with the city school. When the teachers of the rural schools show the worth of their work, and make the proper effort to lead a community, morally, and efforts are made to change conditions surrounding the rural school from a physical consideration, then will the country school rise to a higher standard. A community will respond to an appeal for better conditions. Many teachers go into the profession of teaching as a business man goes into business. The popular idea now is consolidation, and while there are none in Adams, York and Lancaster Counties, in the northern tier of counties there are consolidated schools. Few counties are better than Adams in eighth grade graduates. Adams County stands at the 'fore' in educational work. "The voice of the public school teacher should be heard more in our public educational meetings. Teachers should band together in their respective districts, and plan their work so that nothing may be foisted upon them which is detrimental to the school. I want to congratulate the teachers of Adams County in their work and hope they may be heard in the councils of education in the State."

Music by Institute.

"Epochs of Life," by Dr. Willis—Yesterday when I talked there were six people who did not hear when I said, "when a boy and girl are in love they are not responsible." There is nothing to keep the average individual from working out their allotted time. It is well known that persons at fifty are able in their work; it is also admitted that it takes us as long to do our life work as it took us to grow. We should live without exercise of every kind, we should be able to double the average of life, we want young men in everything in this life; this age needs more the energy of mature men than the drama of young men. I like the thought of the power in the useful life of a mature age. Age is not measured by years, it is determined by the blood vessels. No one should think of being old at fifty, sixty, seventy. He should think he is just coming to power. We are just as old as our blood vessels are. We are old by excesses in tobacco, drinking and various excesses.

I know a woman far up in the sixties, who has observed a normal life and clean living, as young as a person at forty, and is good for more than one hundred years. In the "Epochs of Life" physicians see at first the dormant experience, first two years' sleep, and should set about 1-3 of this mortal life for sleep. There is a twilight in this life at its beginning. There is a twilight in life which points toward the West; another toward the East; these should be about one hundred years apart. We can add years to life, if the first years are spent in a proper manner. The great office of the teacher is to properly direct the course of the young in proper methods of living.

A boy or girl start life at two years the boy full of athletics; the girl of aesthetics. The boy likes sport of daring, and outdoor exercise, the girl likes pleasures of building playhouses, tending toward home-like comforts. This period may be termed dentition. I like to see a boy whose hands are worn with play, because he is of the earth earthy. I have no sympathy in making men out of boys or women out of girls at the age when we must run, before we can be men and women.

A perfectly healthy child will not take disease. Children's diseases are one of the vagaries of the age. We should not need to have the various diseases as proper living will prevent our taking them. I knew a little girl who was brought up under the influence of everything that was good, never heard an unkind word, nor did a wrong thing, then to be sent to school, to hear from the uncouth and untrained the rough and rude in life, is perhaps a good reason to be in fear to send the child to school. The age of adolescence is from twelve to seventeen in the High School. The teacher has the making or forming of the physical life, the moral life, the mental life, and for a long time is not certain what the outcome will be; the boys and girls have opinions of their own, they largely do their own thinking and form their own conclusions. In my experience, we as boys, planned a great future, one was to be governor, one a great preacher, one a great doctor, one a great merchant prince, one a congressman, one a senator. Oh! that life of adolescence, that adolescent age. Oh! the few short years of real life, with its great responsibilities, of the High School teacher, is not a day of ease, with you. I leave the thought of training this period in the life of the boy and girl in your charge.

Dr. H. E. Hall continued the story of the two pupils, "Good and Bad," who broke a window in the school which they attended, and upon being brought up for trial and punishment by the teacher, refused to tell. This trial was beautifully woven into a story, by getting opinions, in writing, from many leading teachers, professors, psychologists, business men, ministers, and representative men and women, from all parts of the civilized world, making an intensely interesting and instructive lesson for teachers and all who have to deal with others in the varied pursuits of life. We quote a few telling excerpts in the opinions received by Dr. Hall in this apt and beautiful story. "The boy should have told the truth, or asked to be excused for telling." The boy, "had two lords to serve," boy honor, and the teacher. Children should be taught to tell the truth against all wrong-doing." "The boy should have told the teacher of the wrong, even though he knew he would be punished. Children should be taught early that they own a part of the machinery of life." "The boy by being silent, becomes an accomplice to the deed." We, the teachers are going along at a hurry up rate differing from our boyhood days. The soldiers of the Brownsville affair refused to tell who did the shooting, and the decision was the suspending of the requirements for refusing to tell.

"Do not act hastily in deciding all problems in your school, go about questions of this kind slowly."

"Juiceless Teaching"—"In our school rooms, we are today analyzing the causes which lead to the conduct of our pupils." "The broken window question—both sides; teacher and pupil would have come to a better understanding if the question would have been discussed." "The same condition should exist in the school as in court." "Truth should, as in court, be told." The boy should not have the same right as the court; character is just being formed; children should be taught to tell the truth when questioned by proper authority, but otherwise may refuse to tell."

Afternoon Session

The session opened with music by Institute, led by I. L. Taylor.

"Conduct Problems", was the subject of Dr. H. E. Hall, who said in part: "If there is one class of people who are held strictly to duty, it is the school teacher. Knowing, thinking, doing, are three principal factors in teaching. How easy it would be for teachers if they thought clearly, knowing how clear thinking stimulates a multitude of right doings."

"The kind of teaching we ought to have in our schools today, is a type which will teach pupils to think clearly along all lines and to have their thoughts stand out clearly as in a panoramic view. It is this training which places the man of the future in the bright light of great trade interests, fitted for the business at his disposal. Who of us ever taught our boys the business of life in the great marts of trade, banking and general business? We are too much disposed to get off in our teaching the nice, the mere mental process, instead of the real in life. Fifty per cent. of our boys fail in the moral things of life, on account of not thinking clearly."

Music.

"Some bits of Educational Theory", was discussed by Dr. J. C. Willis.

"The teachers work is one of the greatest of all professions said Dr. Willis; their work extends beyond life: four points are important in the teachers life:

1st. A teachers relation to the community.

2nd. I should want to know the plane of activity.

3rd. I should want to know whether the school is under discipline.

4th. I should want to see you in the sublime act, of assigning a lesson."

Illustrating the first point, he offered a special case, where a teacher was not particular in his habits, such as the using of tobacco, social drinking, various games and other questionable amusements. There came a time when his influence was against business, church and general improvement in the community, and for 25 years no improvement was seen. In another community where the teaching was entirely different, churches were renovated, a Y. M. C. A. building fund raised in one hour's time, and improvements made along all lines, all of which was largely owing to the teaching in the first schools.

On the second point, the speaker gave his experience in visiting a school which was illustrated as being on a high plane of activity, the teacher being "exquisite and immense", where confusion, disorder and wrong teaching prevailed.—all on a plane of activity too high for the pupils to grasp, too much the case in the school work of the present day. In contrast, he spoke of the visit to the old, physically almost disabled teacher, whose personality was the life of her work, placing within reach of the child that which she taught, making impressions for good in every word and action.

He defined discipline in the school room as:

1st. Homelike respect for authority.

2nd. A respect for property.

3rd. A fairly complete absence of profanity.

4th. An absence of anything that tends to objectionable stories.

5th. Absence of formal communication.

Dr. Willis illustrated these several factors with appropriate remarks which came under his observations in school work, among other things, stating that it is the failures in teaching which kill the teacher, the worries which drive the teacher from the profession and recommended to the teacher in his work that Divine love of the Master which conquers in all work.

Report of the Memorial Committee

For the first time in many years, there has not been a death among the active Teachers of Adams County; but, since we last met, two men have passed away, who, for nearly half a century, had been more or less closely connected with the schools of the County.

They were known to most of us here, and they were especially well known to the older members of the Adams County Teachers' Institute.

It is scarcely necessary to mention the names of Mr. Aaron Sheely and Mr. Calvin Hamilton.

In recognition of their good work, and of the example left us of devotion to duty, not only as educators, but in all the relations of life, the Committee has arranged for a Memorial Service to be held in connection with our regular morning Devotional Exercise.

William McSherry, Esq., will speak of the life and work of Mr. Sheely; and Rev. Dr. T. C. Billheimer, who was associated with Mr. Hamilton in the conduct of the Gettysburg schools, will tell us of his life and work.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

The session opened with singing, led by Mr. I. L. Taylor, after which devotional exercises were conducted by Dr. T. C. Billheimer.

Remarks were made by County Superintendent Roth concerning Memorial Services to Prof. Aaron Sheely and Prof. Calvin Hamilton.

The Memorial Committee, through Mr. Wilson Hummelbaugh, made its report, which was adopted by a rising vote, after which William McSherry, Esq., delivered an appropriate and telling tribute to the memory of Prof. Aaron Sheely, ex-County Superintendent of Schools of Adams County.

Dr. T. C. Billheimer spoke a tribute in sacred memory of the virtues, worth and work of Prof. Calvin Hamilton, as a citizen, a business man, an educator, a man who suppressed personal matters concerning what he did, and used his efforts for the good of others.

Music.

The first period of the morning was taken up by Dr. H. R. Shipherd, who had as his subject, "The Teaching of English Composition." He prefaced his remarks by announcing the titles of several books useful to teachers.

Teaching of English Composition classified:

Necessity of Composition.

Material of Composition.

Letter of Composition.

Spirit of Composition.

Purpose of Composition.

A person to be successful in business must of necessity be able to compose well; practice must be had in order to become efficient in composition. We should study and teach formal rhetoric only so far as we have use for it, in our study.

Two ways of acquiring accuracy are reading good writers, and practicing ourselves; outlining a practice of reading prominent writers and re-writing as we understand, thereby getting the practice needed. The best way to treat a subject is to write it fairly and honestly. Our themes should be specimens which appeal to life as we find it; models may be taken from books or magazines, and used to show how easy it is with a devoted honest purpose to tell or write the story as we see it. Use short themes for the purpose, so the task of writing may not seem burdensome, then use longer themes to necessitate longer paragraphs upon the subject. Cultivate ability to write upon short notice, a letter or telegram, in choice words, telling exact meaning, so that no mistake may be made. The need of correct composition is so apparent, that it should receive the most careful attention on the part of the teacher.

A composition note book is recommended for each pupil, the intelligent use of the books being primarily, to classify errors, and in this way can be properly used in each pupil's care; mistakes should be copied on a separate page. Never allow a pupil to copy a misspelled word. Instill the idea into the pupil that co-operation on the part of the pupil is for their benefit, as well as for the teacher's. The work of composition should be made to appear as a real occurrence, bringing from the learner self-expression, thoroughly in earnest, everlastingly undiscouraged, pursued with the thought of success, realizing that no great thing comes without great cost. The purpose of composition is to teach how to write a plain, clear letter, to say the thing we want to, in good plain language. This kind of writing will assist in good, clear, plain thinging along straight lines, a precious possession to any person. Training in this study will cultivate a richer, better, truer, finer line of thought in daily life, giving to the possessor a better idea of the true life.

"Conduct Problems," by Dr. E. Hall, was the next subject. The chief object in teaching poetry is rhythm, which was illustrated in the reciting of numerous specimens of poetry learned in early school days, telling how the routine of food in poetry was fed to pupils in other days, without regard to the beautiful poetic love not brought out in the menu of those priceless gems. Dr. Hall alluded briefly to the address by Lincoln on Gettysburg's sacred ground, not the words of any locality, but the words which belong to the whole world. The masterly rhythm of those forceful words is wonderful and inspiring and thrills in its recitation.

A few suggestions on the subject: "Making a Good Memory," by Dr. J. C. Willis. Memory is a gift. Any person who is blessed with a fine memory has a weakness in some other direction. Never was there a case of great memory without some defect. He cited a case of the attorney who remembered the testimony of sixty-three witnesses in the most minute detail, all this being accomplished by the law of association, the facts as given with the person making the statement. It is a mistake to think that age should impair the memory. Training, to impress upon the mind, must be of the most rigid kind to acquire a good memory. We learn to remember by the one great law of association summarized under the annexed arrangement:

Fundamental energy. All parts put together equal the whole.

-Afternoon

Institute was opened by singing No. 35 from The Crown—"Under the Snow." "Morning on the Farm." "The Cricket Band." "Come, Twilight is Falling." "Every Day," "The Melody of Spring," "Be Glad."

The first period in the afternoon was occupied by Dr. H. E. Hall, whose subject was "Court of Boyville." He said: "I like boys, ragged, 'tousled' boys. Most persons misunderstand boys—parents, teachers, preachers. Napoleon was forty-second in his class and demoted twenty-five per cent. for slovenly appearance and carelessness in his method during school days."

The boy who may be uncouth, ragged and lacking in civility, because not taught, may become the leader in the movements which soften the burdens of life, and lead in the responsible places."

The illustrated lecture on "The Ancient Cliff Dwellers," by Dr. George La Mont Cole, was a very interesting and instructive presentation of a subject so little known. The Doctor closed with the admonition that all Americans should first see the wonders of our own country before visiting foreign countries.

Dr. J. C. Willis related a story pertaining to Lee and Lincoln, which he said may be fitting upon the historic field of Gettysburg. "A religious conviction and the devotion to duty," in which was described the early days of Lee and Lincoln. Lee a man of illustrious lineage, military training and education. Lincoln's lineage of lowly surroundings and little training. Prior to the war Lincoln urged Lee to permit the President to make Lee commander-in-chief of the Northern armies, next to the President. Three weeks' time was given for consideration. When they met again in a little room, these two great men, together, with one hand on the shoulder of the other, prayed intensely over the situation for the God of nations to guide their actions. They separated, and much influence was brought to bear upon Lee not to accept. The greatest pressure by the Legislature of Virginia was thrown in all its weight to have him remain true to Virginia. Lee accordingly with all the weight of his training and the courage of his duty, as he saw his duty, cast his lot with his native State. But after the war, when Lincoln was laid low by the hand of the assassin, Lee asked to administer to the last rites of the murdered President, but was not present.

RALPH BINGHAM.

Ralph Bingham, another number on the forthcoming entertainment course, is a humorist who for thirty-five years has been making large audiences laugh and still is in the prime of life. This is accounted for by the fact that his first appearance was at the age of six years, when he traveled as the "Boy Orator of America." His appearances on the American continent number nearly 10,000.

HER PERSONALITY FASCINATES HEARERS

MARGARET STAHL

THE right to the title of the greatest woman reader of plays on the Lyceum platform has been fairly won by Margaret Stahl in a free field without favor. Her name carries with it the promise of an evening of rare enjoyment, wherever the Lyceum is known. Her splendid personality fascinates her hearers, and the charm of an elemental womanhood that is bigger than all art, and better than all acting, overwhelms them. Her art extends no less to the presentation of her work than in its selection, her repertoire being chosen with discriminating taste, plays which have a universal appeal, and whose lesson is an uplifting one, being chosen. The number of return engagements which she has won in recent years on some of the most discriminating courses of the country is an indication that she is growing in fame and favor and her art is deepening and widening. Her appearance here in the future insures an artistic treat.

HENDERSON CORSETS

BACK : AND : FRONT : LACED

WE HAVE recently received a magnificent showing of seasonable corsets, in all of those new models that are in demand by those women who care for their figure appearance.

Particular attention is called to the slightly higher bust—the straight, flat back, the effect of which is to produce perfect poise and erect carriage—the removal of the boning over the hips which has found general favor among very many of our patrons—all of these characteristics contribute to the natural, supple, figure lines.

Our corset department is known as devoted to the best type of corsets and we particularly feature Henderson Corsets at $1.00 and above.

Your attention is called to the following which is but one of the many excellent models we have in stock.

Style 682: a low bust, free hip design for average figures: has wide elastic section in the skirt at the back which permits perfect adjustment to every body motion. This corset is made of white coutil and produces trim figure outlines. Price only $2.00.

A GETTYSBURG REPORT

Fully Corroborated and Easily Investigated.

Do you need a good kidney medicine. Then read the reports in these very columns of Gettysburg persons cured or benefited with Doan's Kidney Pills. You won't have to go far to find out if they are true. This Gettysburg case is an example. Others will follow.

Mrs. M. A. Gilbert, 128 W. Middle St., Gettysburg, says: "I have had no need for Doan's Kidney Pills since I used and publicly recommended them some years ago. They are the best kidney remedy to use. My health was all run down, owing to disordered kidneys. I didn't have much of an appetite and couldn't sleep well. My back and head ached and I had dizzy spells and chills. Whenever I caught cold, I felt worse. One of my relatives advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I got some at the People's Drug Store. It didn't take this remedy long to remove the trouble."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Gilbert had. Foster-Milburn, Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

Winter Clothing.

The season has arrived when the thoughtful housewife gets out her husband's "hannels" and her own. Unfortunately many people dress according to the calendar and if the weather happens to be unreasonable, so much the worse for the wearer.

Winter means heavy clothes and too often heavy underclothes. Of course the question of the occupation of the individual is a factor in winter dress but the great majority of people spend their time in steam-heated homes and offices where the temperature is little lower in winter than in summer.

For those who live or work in a temperature of from 65 to 70° Fahr., the wearing of heavy underclothes is not only fraught with considerable discomfort but it is apt to lead to colds. To keep the skin dry and to give it air are the two necessary requisites in sensible and healthful dressing of the body.

A certain amount of respiration is going on through the pores of the skin to equalize the bodily heat. If the underclothing is too heavy and tight fitting, it does not permit of sufficient circulation of air. An excess of heat or a little unusual exercise will cause perspiration. If in this condition there is exposure to cold, the overheated parts may become chilled and a cold ensues.

When some circulation of air is permitted, perspiration is disposed of by evaporation and the skin remains dry. Old people, babies and those with weak hearts should always be clothed with thin woolen underwear that they may be kept warm and the evaporation given off slowly by the wool. In going from a warm indoor temperature into the cold outer air heavy outside garments should be worn which can be laid aside on re-entering the heated rooms.

It is becoming more and more the custom for indoor workers to wear lighter weight under garments in winter and to depend more upon their outer clothing to protect them from the cold when exposed.

No FALSE PRETENSE has marked the career of Ely's Cream Balm. Being entirely harmless, it is not responsible like the catarrh snuffs and powders, for mounds shattered by cocaine. The great virtue of Ely's Cream Balm, is that it speedily and completely overcomes nasal catarrh and hay fever. Back of this statement is the testimony of thousands and a reputation of many years' success. All druggists, 50c., or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING

CLOSING UP FOURTH YEAR OF ASSOCIATION EXISTENCE.

Good Addresses of Dr. Billheimer
New Officers Elected for Ensuing Year

The fourth year of the Parent-Teachers' Association came to an end at the regular meeting on last Thursday evening and the High School room was crowded with an audience of several hundred of our citizens.

After the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Wm. Arch. McClean and minutes read, the excellent entertainment program was taken up, the first feature being a violin solo by William Zinzand, accompanied on piano by his sister, Miss Edna Zinzand. This was followed by a recitation by Mrs. R. H. Bushman.

Reports were then made, Mrs. McClean telling of the Mothers' Congress held at Lancaster in last week of October which she attended as a delegate and of the phases of child welfare work heard discussed. The expenses attending these gatherings was so moderate that Gettysburg should be represented by a full delegation.

Mrs. W. F. Gilliland of the Visiting Committee made the following report: We, the members of the Visiting Committee, called to see all the schools and found them full to their capacity, but doing good work. We think the method of teaching most excellent and cannot but compare the advantage of the child of to-day with the opportunity we parents had when we were children attending school. The method of teaching the beginners especially interested us, every child was as bright, happy and ready to answer as if they were enjoying some game, each one anxious to spell or pronounce the greatest number of words. The High School seemed like a big work shop, everyone doing something and so many different things that we could not tell you of them all, but we saw no idle hands, all ready and willing workers.

In the Domestic Science Department we not only saw them prepare the food but enjoyed tasting some of it, which they most generously shared with us, and which was most appetizing. The girls are taught not only to prepare the food, but how to serve it properly, which the new dining room enables them to do, and this being such delightful work should eliminate the old idea of drudgery which is too often a girl's idea of cooking and washing dishes.

Another addition to our schools which is closely allied to domestic science is the course in Domestic Art of dress-making. We congratulate the class of 1915 that they are having at least one year's training in this course before graduating from the High School of Gettysburg. We would urge every parent here to visit the schools and see the great work their children are doing and we can assure you that teachers, parents and pupils will be benefited by your visits. We thank the teachers for the cordiality shown us while visiting their schools.

J. Elmer Musselman as treasurer, reported proceeds in hand with balance from previous year of $311.87. In this total was included proceeds of picture shows and tag day. After paying current expenses, salary of teacher of music $103, and instructor of orchestra $20, there was a balance of $311.12 in treasury.

Upon motion it was decided to make a donation of $20 to the High School orchestra.

New members were reported as follows: Mrs. John A. Mumper, Mrs. Ida Troxell, Rev. and Mrs. Wm. R. Glen, Miss Lily Dougherty, Mrs. Lewis E. Kirssin and C. Morris McCullough.

Miss Pauline Rudisill and Miss Daisy Wentz entertained with a duet.

Dr. T. C. Billheimer made an inspiring address on the theme of the cooperation of the home due to the importance of the teacher, one of the greatest influences for good in a community, the responsibilities upon the teacher, not to hear recitations but to build character, right, and of the many difficulties the teacher continually encounters to make her work a small result.

The work of the teacher could be magnified and her difficulties lessened with full and active co-operation from the home, and some practical aspects of this co-operation were pointed out. The children should go from the home to the schools clean and tidy. The effect of the unclean and untidy child is to injure the tone of the school and discourage the teacher. A well-mannered child will assist the teacher in his work.

A few children in a school room are the whole house in a state of confusion. The child of the home should be a help to the teacher, not a hindrance.

After a short address by the speaker, the meeting adjourned.

The meeting was a most successful one, and the work of the association for the past year was well represented.

The committee retired and the entertainment part was concluded with a quartet by the Misses Rudisill and they responded with an encore.

The Nominating Committee reported for President, Mrs. E. A. Weaver, Vice President, Mrs. H. M. Roth, Secretary, Miss Blanche Stoops, Financial Secretary, Mrs. J. Harry Holtzworth, Treasurer, J. Elmer Musselman.

Mrs. McClean extended her thanks to all members for their co-operation during the two years of her work, and any success that had been enjoyed was due to the hearty support always given. She was happy to say that she had never been refused help or work asked of a member.

Prof. Burgoon, speaking of Mrs. McClean's untiring, tactful and energetic work for the past two years, moved a rising vote of thanks, which was given.

The First and Second Grades taught by Miss Ruff, received the Home and School Banner, having twenty parents present.

These committees were appointed by the newly elected president for next month: Program, Mrs. W. A. McClean, Prof. W. A. Burgoon and Mrs. H. B. Bender; Visiting, Mrs. C. S. Reaser, Mrs. C. B. Dougherty, Mrs. E. P. Sachs, Mrs. E. H. Forrest and Mrs. F. Mark Bream.

In concluding the meeting Mrs. McClean made a statement which she felt was due the association and in justice to certain officers and members:

A minstrel show given last April realized $0 odd dollars and a check for 30 odd dollars was sent to our treasurer but was returned because all the proceeds worked for were wanted. The other made was to give the show and the association to have all the proceeds. This understanding was repeated on Saturday evening, April 25, when three of the Parent-Teachers' Association met two of the Show Committee and asked whether the association would get all the proceeds and the answer was given, yes, all the proceeds, except expenses, and in repeating the offer these expenses were stated as not over $5, $5, or $10, and the Parent-Teachers' committee repeated several times, "We get all the rest of the proceeds," and were assured of that fact. Not a word of percent was mentioned by anyone before the event and if it had been it would have been turned down as several snobs had been done before. In trying to adjust the misunderstanding the three members of the Parent-Teachers' Association have not been able to meet the two of the Show Committee making the promises of all the proceeds.

Not a word of percent was mentioned by anyone before the event and if it had been it would have been turned down as several snobs had been done before. In trying to adjust the misunderstanding the three members of the Parent-Teachers' Association have not been able to meet the two of the Show Committee making the promises of all the proceeds.

A minstrel show given last April realized $0 odd dollars and a check for 30 odd dollars was sent to our treasurer but was returned because all the proceeds worked for were wanted. The other made was to give the show and the association to have all the proceeds. This understanding was repeated on Saturday evening, April 25, when three of the Parent-Teachers' Association met two of the Show Committee and asked whether the association would get all the proceeds and the answer was given, yes, all the proceeds, except expenses, and in repeating the offer these expenses were stated as not over $5, $5, or $10, and the Parent-Teachers' committee repeated several times, "We get all the rest of the proceeds," and were assured of that fact. Not a word of percent was mentioned by anyone before the event and if it had been it would have been turned down as several snobs had been done before. The Kneisel Quartet.

Tickets are shortly to be distributed for the Kneisel Quartet Concert, which is to be given in Brna Chapel on Friday evening, December 4. This will be the event of the season for music lovers of Gettysburg and Adams county generally.

The Quartet is known throughout the country, and has been for years as the best spring quartet in America. The players are men of standing in the musical world. Mr. Kneisel, first violin, was concertmaster in the famous Boston Symphony Orchestra; Mr. Letz, second violin, held a similar position with the Thomas Orchestra of Chicago; Mr. Servens, viola, was leader of the violas in the Boston Symphony Orchestra, while Mr. Wilke, cello, has played as soloist with a number of the best orchestras in Europe. A feature of the program will be the cello solo work of Mr. Wilke.

The expense involved in securing such an organization for Gettysburg has been considerable, but the committee having the matter in charge are confident that our people will patronize something of the first order, as they did the Bispham recital of last season. In fact not many tickets will be available after the subscribers have been supplied. The chart opens at Eckert's Store at 8 a. m. on Wednesday, November 25th. Most of the reserved seats are a dollar, a very few are seventy-five cents.

The "Philadelphia Ledger" said last season: "No event is better worth the while of one who sincerely cares for music than a Kneisel Concert."

Loses Auto by Fire.

Hon. D. P. McPherson of this place, lost his four cylinder Cadillac auto by fire on Thursday afternoon of last week. Hon. and Mrs. McPherson and Miss Annie Horner were in the car on a trip to Hagerstown. They were descending a steep hill on the Waynesboro pike on the other side of the mountain when a noise was heard. Mr. McPherson drew his car to the side of the road and it was discovered that the car was on fire. The occupants quickly got out of the fire and saved such of the contents as it was possible but in a few moments flames enveloped the car and destroyed it beyond repair. It was a total loss, no insurance being carried.

Memoirs of Napoleon

In Three Volumes

The personal reminiscences of Baron de Méneval, for thirteen years private secretary to Napoleon Bonaparte, bring out, as no history can, many enlightening and interesting side lights on the character of that greatest of leaders. De Méneval's descriptions have the piquancy and interest possible only because he was an actual eyewitness of the scenes and incidents of which he writes. Their reliability and historical interest can be judged by the fact that the very conservative French Academy publicly recommends them.
